Annual: August Maintenance: The aircraft has recently completed its scheduled maintenance and successfully passed an airworthiness review. A new Airworthiness Review Certificate (ARC) was issued on 25 August 2025 and is valid until 24 August 2026. At the time of inspection, the airframe total time was 2,496:57 hours with 4,464 landings. The last major inspection included a 100-hour check in accordance with the EASA Minimum Inspection Program, compliance with applicable airworthiness directives, and structural inspections as required under the Cessna SID program. Additional maintenance records and updated documents are available for review.

Altre segnalazioni

History: This Cessna FR182RG was manufactured in 1980 by Reims Aviation in France under license from Cessna. The aircraft has been registered in Germany as D-EODV since at least 1996 and has been operated privately. It features a retractable landing gear and is part of the European-built Skylane series. With an airframe total time of approximately 2,500 hours and no known damage history, this aircraft offers a solid foundation for continued operation.
